AUCTION LOCATION: Auction Held On-Site.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION:

The Foster Family has stewarded this highly productive farm for many years; working for decades to accumulate a large, contiguous bottomland farm at the confluence of Rush Creek and the Washita River near Pauls Valley, OK. After much consideration, they are now presenting this exceptional property to the marketplace for the first time in a generation. The farm is comprised of predominately Class I; Keokuk Silt Loam soils and has minimal flood plain impact for a property in such a location – view the flood plain and soils maps in our Bidder Information Booklet.

In addition to the exceptional agricultural value of this property, it also offers tremendous wildlife habitat along the river bottom. Large pockets of mature timber with access to the Washita River and Rush Creek meander along the north and east sections of the farm, creating an excellent recreational property with attractive income potential. These type properties rarely come to market, whether looking for a highly productive agriculture investment or an exciting recreational property you need to give this one thorough consideration!
